

Local volunteer nominated for statewide Shine the Light contest

During June, Iowa's Touchstone Energy cooperatives sponsored the Shine the Light contest for the second year, accepting nominations of those people making a positive difference in their communities.

Franklin REC is honored to have nominated Hope Hartman of Sheffield.

Hope's commitment to community runs as deep as her hometown roots. At a young age, she was taught by her family of volunteers about the importance of volunteering and giving back to her community. The influence from her childhood has created an outstanding young adult whose dedication benefits her community.

During Hope's freshman year of high school, she began her own project to positively impact her community and help fill a void seen by many people. That spring, the city of Sheffield witnessed their empty flower pots on Main Street evolve into Hope's Sheffield Main Street Flower Planter project. Hope, with assistance from her family, filled a dozen large flower pots with beautiful, colorful floral arrangements.

The first year of Hope's project was a learning curve, as the heat and full sun took a toll on the plants. Over the years, Hope has educated herself on the species of plants able to withstand our hot Iowa summers. In the spring, Hope travels to local greenhouses in search of that year's flowers. She has received tremendous support from local businesses on ordering specific plants for her project. This summer marks Hope's fourth year of planting and maintaining the blooming flower pot planters lining Main Street in Sheffield.

The hours of watering and nurturing by Hope are well worth the smiles the project brings to community members' faces. Some of Hope's favorite visitors are the Sheffield Senior Center residents. "Hearing them 'ooo' and 'ahh' about them always makes my heart really warm and makes me want to keep doing this project," she commented. Likewise, Sheffield business owners enjoy the overflowing beautiful flower pots embellishing their store fronts.

Not only does Hope spend countless hours on her Sheffield Main Street Flower Planter project, but new opportunities to support fellow community members have emerged. During the day, Hope is spending time either helping at her grandparent's Christmas tree farm or working at Sheffield City Hall. On summer nights you'll find her at the ball fields umping Little League games. In Hope's spare time she assists a handful of elderly residents by caring for their landscaping and flowers.

Hope's desire to positively impact the lives around her has influenced her future plans, as well. This fall, Hope will begin her studies for her degree in secondary education with an emphasis in family and consumer sciences. If chosen as a Shine the Light recipient, Hope will donate her $2,000 prize money to the Coulter-Alexander-Latimer school district's greenhouse program to help further educate students on the benefits of plants.

Even at a young age Hope recognized a need for her community and acted upon it. With a few plants, Hope was able to create a dazzling downtown for all Sheffield residents and visitors to 'ooo' and 'ahh' over. Hope's initiative to give back to her community without expectation is an example of how great character is built.

Fareway donated all proceeds from the grill out, totaling $1,331, toward Light Up the Night. Thank you to Fareway for hosting the fundraiser and contributing to this year's event- we can't wait to spread our holiday cheer!

A huge THANK YOU to all the individuals and business who supported and helped create a successful fundraiser. We would also like to recognize the Franklin County Cattlemen Association for grilling.

Leave air conditioner on during vacations

If you're thinking about saving a few bucks by turning off your central air conditioning while you escape for summer vacation, consider what you might need to keep cool in your home while you're gone.

At the top of that list is your refrigerator.

In a kitchen that's too warm, your refrigerator has to work at least twice as hard to keep its interior cold. It will put in that double duty whether there's food inside of it or not, as long as it's plugged in.

That can counteract any energy savings you might see when you shut down the a/c for a week. And it could stress your refrigerator out enough to damage or even ruin it.

Best bet: Nudge the thermostat up four to five degrees higher than usual before you leave for vacation. That way, your house won't be as cool as it would be to keep people comfortable, but it won't get so warm that your refrigerator is overworked.

Plus, keeping the a/c on could prevent other problems that can occur in a home that is too humid because of a lack of air conditioning, like mold and mildew growth and even damage to electronics.
